

Actor Tony Curtis Helping Rescued Horses

POSTED: MAR 25, 2010 1:38 PM PDT

6" collectible figurine featuring Tony Curtis artworks

LAS VEGAS -- The Shiloh Horse Rescue and Sanctuary is getting some help from Hollywood royalty. Actor Tony Curtis is selling some artwork to benefit horses at the rescue.

The centerpiece is a large painted horse named Shiloh which will be traveling around bringing attention to the cause. You can buy miniature versions of Shiloh signed by Curtis. There will also be other items on sale including wine, Some Like it Hot Sauce and bars of soap that feature images of Tony with Marilyn Monroe and his art

"There are many Shiloh's, and not called Shiloh's, but many horse rearing organizations that try to save them from being slaughtered, but not quite enough. And so this is the purpose of Shiloh," said Curtis.

You can meet Tony Curtis, purchase a mini Shiloh and get his autograph this Saturday from 2 p.m. - 4 p.m. at Dillard's, at the Fashion Show mall. You can also get the items through his website.